

95 Bellevue Ave was home to the first federally funded day nursery in Canada! Why was it funded? What happened next?

From the closure of day nurseries at the end of World War II, to feminist struggles for affordable childcare in the 1980s, to the challenge of finding a daycare spot today, come learn about the history of childcare in Toronto, as told through the stories of 95 Bellevue.

Join the DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC MEMORY to listen to and share memories of this remarkable site.

Learn about the long history of publicly funded childcare in this building. Witness the unveiling of a commemorative sign.
